

Cross Agency Priority Goal

Quarterly Progress Update

Customer Service

Goal Leaders:

Lisa Danzig, Associate Director for Personnel and Performance, Office of Management and Budget;

Carolyn Colvin, Acting Commissioner, Social Security Administration

FY2015 Quarter 3

Goal Statement

- Increase citizen satisfaction and promote positive experiences with the federal government by making it faster and easier for individuals and businesses to complete transactions and receive quality services.

Urgency

- Citizens and businesses expect government services to be well-designed, efficient, and generally comparable to the services they receive from leading private sector organizations.
- Despite some important strides to improve customer service over the past 15 years, many federal government services fail to meet the expectations of citizens and businesses, creating unnecessary hassle and cost for citizens, businesses, and the government itself.

Vision

- Create measureable increases in timeliness and quality for top transactions, as measured by transaction-specific indicators.
- Create measureable improvements in citizen satisfaction across government, using standard cross-agency measurements.

Progress Updates

The U.S. General Services Administration (GSA), in partnership with four other federal agencies, launched the FeedbackUSA customer experience pilot. FeedbackUSA will allow citizens to provide quick feedback to federal agencies through a single tap of a kiosk button. The pilot will take place in the following locations:

Department of State

- Transactional feedback at 27 passport processing centers
- Averaging 1,500 responses per day

Social Security Administration

- Transactional feedback at 14 card centers
- Averaging 50 responses per day in first card center

Transportation Security Administration

- Transactional feedback on pre-check and security processes at 4 airports

U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs

- Transactional feedback at benefits centers

Progress Updates

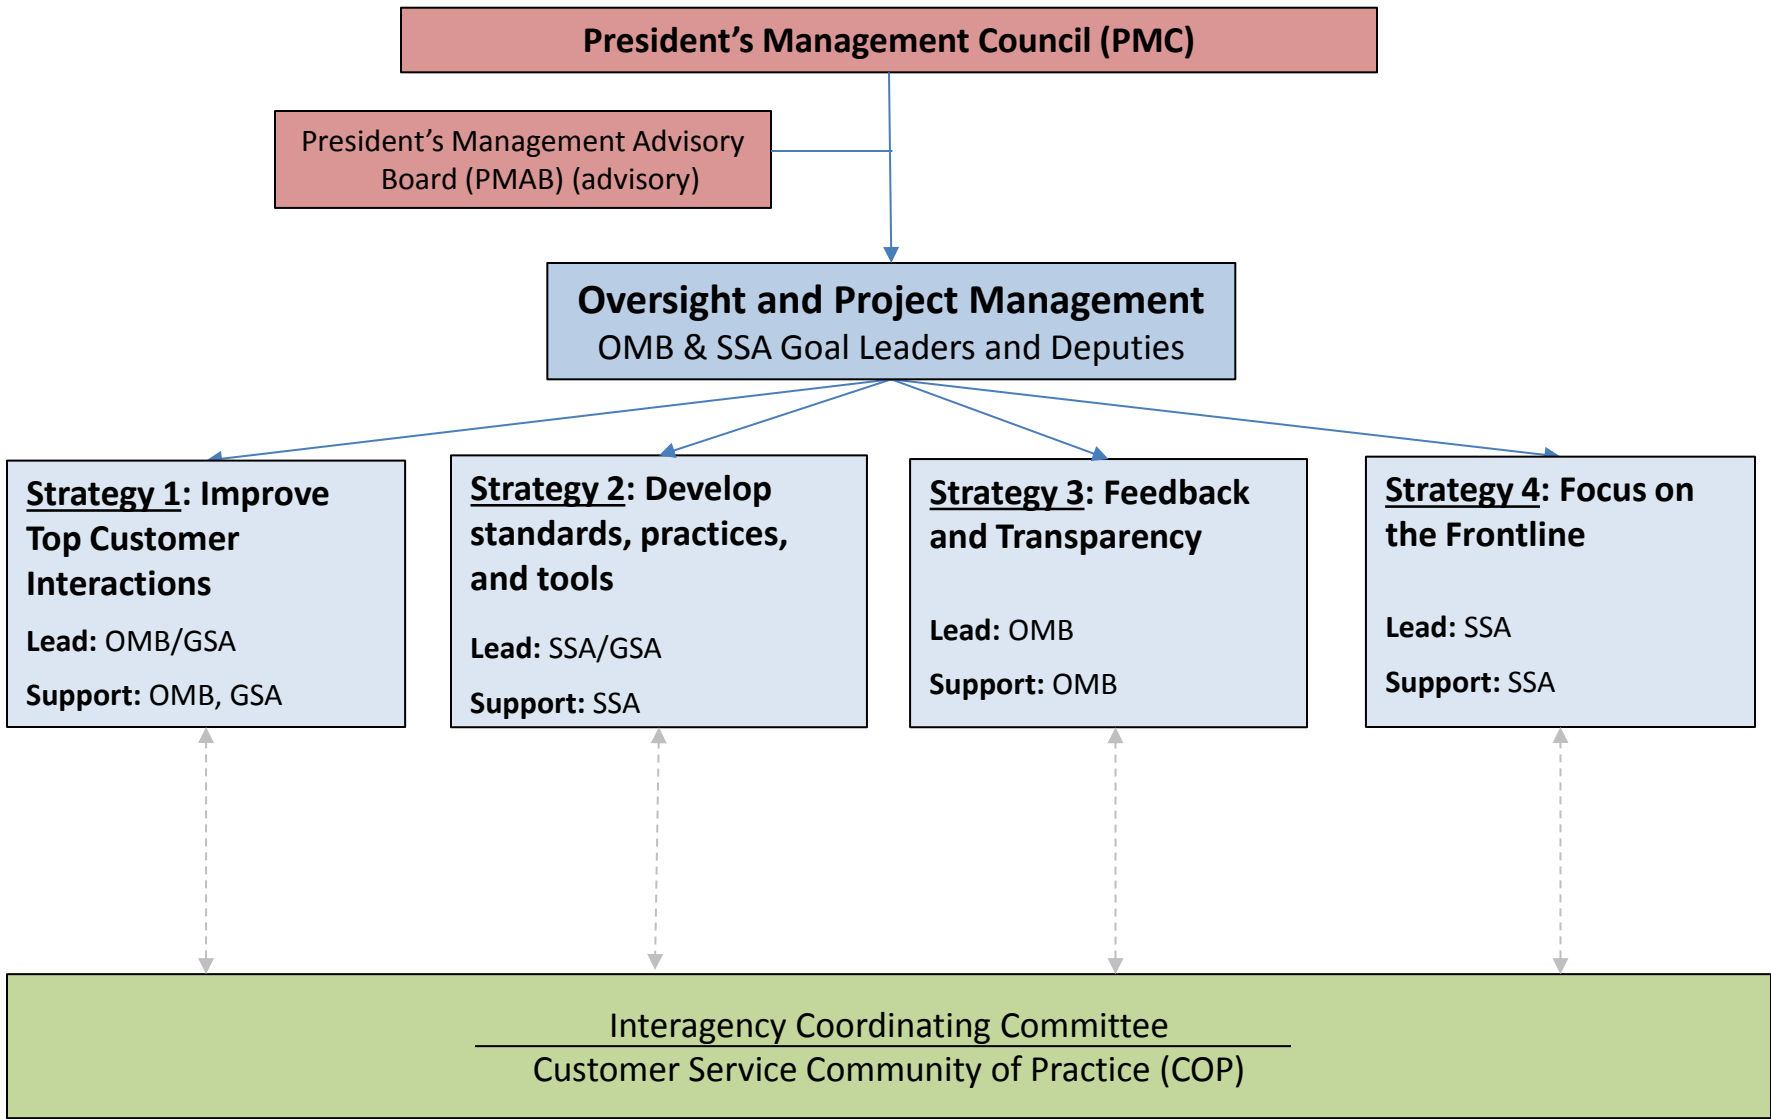

- Federal agencies have submitted nominees for the President's Award for Customer Service. The goal of the awards is to recognize individuals and teams who provide outstanding customer service directly to the American people and support identifying and sharing innovative practices across agencies. An advisory board is currently reviewing the nominations and will recommend finalists to a selection panel. Award recipients will be announced in the fall.
- The Denver Regional Community of Practice (RCoP) pilot held its second meeting in August to review the progress of the workgroups and determine next steps.
- The Customer Service CAP Goal team is currently developing an action plan for the next two years and will provide an update in the next quarterly update.

Action Plan Summary

Sub-goal	Major Actions to achieve Impact	Key indicators [in development]
Strategy 1: Improve Top Customer Interactions	Track improvements in the timeliness and quality of top customer interactions and facilitate a reduction of barriers and accessing of expertise in order to make improvements where possible.	Citizen satisfaction across government, using standard cross-agency measurements
Strategy 2: Develop and implement standards, practices, and tools	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Establish a Customer Service Community of Practice (COP). • Identify a senior leader and team at each agency who will advocate for customer experience and coordinate efforts to improve customer service. • With the guidance of the COP, develop customer service standards and principles, as well as an assessment framework for agencies to use to determine opportunities for improvement. • Share best practices, including facilitating workshops and developing a “what works” collaboration tool for sharing ideas and jointly solving problems. • Develop tools to identify strengths and weakness in existing customer service and develop a simple, government-wide customer satisfaction process that can be applied across any interaction. 	Number and adoption of tools identified by the COP
Strategy 3: Feedback and Transparency	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Engage Congress and other stakeholders to identify areas where improvements are needed. • Make customer service feedback a standard practice for customer-facing communications. • Consider how to increase the use of voluntary customer satisfaction surveys to develop customer service improvements. • Increase the transparency of transaction times and satisfaction measures for top customer-facing transactions, and report on customer satisfaction across all customer-facing agencies and programs. • Leverage the President’s Management Council (PMC) and President’s Management Advisory Board (PMAB) to seek out lessons learned and best practices for increasing stakeholder acceptance of changes to service delivery models. 	Indicators of data availability; results from newly established feedback mechanisms
Strategy 4: Focus on the Frontline	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop opportunities for agency executives to spend time in the field hearing directly from customers and emphasizing the importance of customer service to front-line staff. • Recognize excellent customer service by developing awards programs. • Promote a culture of customer service and develop a toolkit for improving the capability and capacity of the customer service workforce. 	Employee Viewpoint Survey (EVS) results

Goal Team and Governance Plan

Work Plan - Strategy 1: Improve Top Customer Interactions

Problem being targeted: Many government interactions impact a large numbers of citizens and any gap between existing service levels and expectations may create frustration with specific agencies and with the government in general. The list of specific transactions being targeted will be refined over time as data sources are developed and analyzed. Specific transactions initially identified include TSA security screening, veterans' pension and disability applications, student-loan repayment, Social Security and taxpayer assistance.

Theory of change: Agencies are already working hard to create improvements in these areas, but by regularly reviewing progress we can provide program managers with senior-level support and help identify best practices across government.

Milestone Summary
Key Milestones	Milestone Due Date	Milestone status	Owner
Identify initial list of top customer interactions	Q4 FY14	Complete	OMB
Meet with each team to discuss successes, challenges and action plans	Q1 FY15	Under Review*	OMB
Identify opportunities to provide support to teams	Q1 FY15	Under Review*	OMB
Provide regular updates on progress	Ongoing	Under Review*	OMB

* OMB is currently reviewing the plan for improving top transactions to ensure alignment with the Smarter IT CAP Goal

Work Plan - Strategy 2: Develop and implement standards, practices, and tools

Problem being targeted: Fragmentation and silos have made it difficult to establish customer service standards and initiatives within and across agencies, and there are few mechanisms for collaboration and sharing best practices.

Theory of change: Establishing a community of practice across agencies and clarifying who is responsible for customer service will help establish an infrastructure to improve coordination and develop sustained change over time. This capacity will be used to develop standards, practices and tools that can be implemented by agencies over time.

Milestone Summary
Key Milestones	Milestone Due Date	Milestone status	Owner
Establish key COP roles and solicit COP coordinators	Q3 FY14	Complete	SSA/COP
Develop the scope and guiding principles of the COP	Q4 FY14	Complete	SSA/COP

Conduct a year-end review of Denver RCoP	Q2 FY16	On Track	SSA/COP
Make recommendations to CAP Goal leaders on actions that can be taken in this area to improve customer service	Ongoing	On Track	SSA/COP

Work Plan - Strategy 3: Feedback and Transparency

Problem being targeted: There is insufficient data available to identify government’s major customer service challenges or to diagnose problem areas, and often limited transparency into the quality and timeliness of specific services.

Theory of change: Data can be used to target improvement efforts at both the government-wide an agency level, and can provide diagnostic information for use at a program-level. In addition, improved transparency would help citizens set expectations and hold government accountable for improvements.

Milestone Summary

* This milestone was not completed due to a lack of resources to develop a collection tool.

 OMB is currently reviewing the plan for improving top transactions to ensure alignment with the Smarter IT CAP Goal

 The milestone due date was erroneously listed as FY 15 in the last quarterly update. OMB is on track to develop a policy tool for full implementation in Q3 FY 16.

Work Plan - Strategy 4: Focus on the Frontline

Problem being targeted: Too often customer service does not feel like a priority to front-line staff and, in some cases, staff that work directly with citizens feel undervalued. Further, an insufficiently trained front-line staff can complicate efforts to improve customer service.

Theory of change: Agency executives are able to communicate to agency staff that this is a priority area for the Administration. This will be reinforced by the creation of awards programs which incentivize improvement across programs. In addition, engaging the COP to focus on workforce issues will provide agencies with tools to make improvements.
